Rayburn Speaks At NTMWD Saturday

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn praised citizens of North Texas for their vision in solving their water problems, when he spoke at the open house of the North Texas Municipal Water District Saturday afternoon, in Wylie. The occasion was held at the new $9,200,000 water treatment plant, recently completed.

The crowd attending was limited due to the weather conditions, with high winds and intermitent showers throughout the day.

Representatives of the ten cities of the NTMWD, as well a numerous other North Texans, enjoyed the occasion, and enjoyed the tour through the treatment plant. along with the other entertainment planned for the afternoon. A. P. Rollins of Wylie, general manager, was assisted by officials of the Water District, in welcoming Congressman Rayburn and the many visitors.

Commenting on the cost of the project, he said "it was worth every cent but we are not through with it. Now we have to open a channel below the bay so that water flowing out of the reservoir can be controlled and precious topsoil can be saved."

One of the major issues of the day, Rayburn said he hopes President Eisenhower's budget can be cut by $3,000,000,000 to $5,0000,000,000, and every American can have his income tax cut.

"This nation was shocked," he said," by the highest budget ever asked in the history of this nation."

Rayburn said he had pledged his best efforts to "reduce this budget and not hurt the country."

"We will cut only where we know it will not hurt the country," he said. "And we expect to give all the people who pay income taxes some reduction, not let it go to the few."

Lake Lavon, source of the water supply, boasts a normal pool capacity of 105,000 acre feet with a flood control pool capacity of 275-600 acre feet.

With the water treatment plant are nine ground storage tanks and four booster pump stations which first began delivery of treated water Nov. 9, 1956.

The North Texas Municipal Water District was authorized in 1951 by a special act of the 52nd Legislature.

The ten member cities joined the district in May 1951.

Since that time the City of Dallas has joined the organization as a customer which has a contract for 3,650,000 gallons of water a year from the Lake Lavon Reservoir.

A few months after the cities voted to join the organization, the district began plans for appropriating water stored in Lavon and for a $9,2000,000 project that would treat and deliver water to the member cities.

Following a bond election, first construction contrasts were let in February 1955, and the project was finished in March 1957.

Present officers of the district, are Clifford Carpenter of Farmersville, president; J. O. Wallace of Rockwall, vice-president and C. Hansford Ray, of McKinney, secretary. A. P. Rollins, of Tyler is the plan's general manager.

The lake contains at its present elevation of 471.1 feet above sea level 133,816 acre-feet or in excess of 43½ billion gallons of water.

The member cities of the NTMWD are McKinney and Garland, the two key cities; Wylie, Farmersville, Princeton, Plano, Mesquite, Rockwall, Royce City and Forney.

Wool Payment Applications Must Be Filed By April 30.

Applications for payments under the 1956 wool price incentive program must be filed with County ASC Committees by April 30, Extension Economist A. B. Wooten reminds Texas prducers.

These applications should apply to any wool sold between April 1, 1956, and March 31, 1957. Wool sold after March 31 will be eligible for 1957 program payments to be made next year says Wooten.

The applications must be accompanied by documents showing the exact net proceeds from wool sales. Marketing charges for freight or other services should be deducted. All phases of the transaction must have been completed by the March 31 deadline.

Payments on these applications will be made sound time this summer after the average price per pound received by U. S. producers is known. The basis for payment will be the same as last year, with producers receiving a percentage of their own price — the higher the price received, the higher the payment. Percentage paid will reflect the difference between the average price received by all producers and the 62-cents-per-pound incentive level. This system was provided for in the National Wool Act of 1954, passed by Congress to stimulate wool production toward a 300-million-pound national goal.

Payments last year maounted to $44.90 for every $100 producers earned from wool sales. Texas producers received $9,618,086.00 said Wooten.

Sound Planning Needed for Well-Rounded Forage Program.

Pastures will take no more abuse than any other farm crop, says Extension Pasture Specialist E. M. Trew. High producing pastures can be unprofitable he, adds if utilized improperly or given poor grazing management.

A sound forage program that will meet all needs for grazing, hay and silage requires considerable, planning. The number one consideration is the use of plants adapted to local soil, climatic and livestock conditions. While the best quality forage is always more desirable for livestock and especially dairy cows hogs, or poultry; some types of animals can get along on lower quality forage much better then others.

Proper pasture establishment gets a srong initial boost when good quality seed are used to insure better stands. Planting the right amount of seed at the right time on a well-prepared seeedbed will put the finishing touches on this phase. Recommendations call for planting in a band above a fertilizer band placed 2 to 3 inches below and to one side of the seed. Soil must be firmed with a press wheel after seeding.

Don't start grazing until plants are well established, always stop grazing at the right time. Over grazing reduces production! Practice rotation grazing. It means the use of high percentage of available grazing; rest for plants between grazings; use of plants were palatable and nutritious; and the use of growth not needed for grazing as hay or silage.

Properly grazing and fertilizing adapted plants in the best means of weed control, and vigorous pasture plants will greatly reduce this problem. Weed control becomes unprofitable in cultviated pastures not containing good stands of adapted desirable plants.

The first and second half winners in that district will play a series for the championship at the end of the regular schedule. Champions of 29 and 35-B will meet in a bi-district series later in the spring.

Tuesday afternoon Princeton beat Community 8-3. Sammy Taylor was the winning pitcher. Shipp was the loser.

Blue Ridge beat Wylie 12-1 Tuesday behind the hurling of James White. Jerry Cooper and Red Hensley hurled for Wylie.

Prosper's Jerry Edwards tossed a neat 1-hitter at the Celina Bobcats Tuesday only to see his teammates' errors, 6 of them, cost him a victory. Ray Pinion was the winner. He gave up only 4 hits in chalking up the victory.

Tuesday the schedule reads, Westminster at Prosper, Frisco at Anna, Alla at Celina, Blue Ridge at Community and Allen at Wylie.

The regular schedule in District 29-B ends April 26 and in 35-B on May 3, however, many games will have to be made up before a winner can be named.

Mental Health Week Set For April 28-May 4

AUSTIN — Visitors to Texas State Hospitals during Mental Health Week will find an atmosphere of new hope for the mentally ill, Dr. James A. Bethea, executive director of the state hospital system said today.

Mental Health Week, April 28-May 4, is sponsored by the Texas Society for Mental Health and its 22 countywide affiliates. Dr. Virginia H. Love of Houston is president.

In its program of service to the mentally ill, TSMH works closely with the hospital system.

"Care of mental patients has come a long way since that not too distant past when they were called lunatics and chained or confined under guard to dungeons in insane asylums," Dr. Bethea said. "Now, mentally ill persons receive hospital treatment in keeping with modern medical concepts and they are being returned to normal every day living as rapidly as they can be cured.

"Our state hospitals still face many problems," Dr. Bethea added. "They are still short of needed personnel. Adequate space is a perplexing lack in most of the hospitals.

Visitors to the hospitals will see evidence of these accomplishments, Dr. Bethea said, but he warned against complacency. Texans can take pride in improved treatment of mental illness, he said, but it still poses a staggering problem to the state's pyramiding population.

They should keep in mind, however, that what has been achieved is "only a good beginning," Dr. Bethea cautioned, "and much must still be done if the hospital system is to keep abreast of the steadily increasing demands on its services."

Open house dates at the various state hospitals include: Austin - April 28; Big Spring - April 29 through May 3; Rusk - May 3 and 4; San Antonio - May 1; Wichita Falls, April 28.

M'Kinney C C Manager Tells Of E. Texas Meeting

By PAT SIMPSON
Manager McKinney Chamber of Commerce

I recently attended the East Texas Chamber of Commerce annual meeting along with about 250 other people from 72 counties, who took of their time and resources to meet and study about how to make their community a better place in which to live and do business.

This was a very interesting trip to Nacgodoches, what with winter rains and spring in bloom, East Texas is very beautiful. It was fortunate in having two intelligent and compatible companions on the trip and we discussed many things. What would make a better community in which to live? What is culture and why is it better to have some degree of culture? Education? What is a successful man? Where does God fit into the scheme of things? We did not answer old questions but we were in agreement that man with the degree of culture he has today is better off then when he roamed the jungles and lived by his own strength and with without assistance from other men, and that a successful man is not one who has amassed a large amount of money only.

I heard many talks at the convention and many ideas expressed on how to solve our problems and make each community a better place in which to live. Some thought this could be done by doing away with our system of organized labor; some that it could be done by cuitting the national budget; some by lowering taxes; some by having additional taxes; some by having business people take a more active part in politics; some by getting labor out of the major political parties; some by having a stronger Democrat party; some by having a stronger Republican party; some by having a better balanced two-party system in more states; some by paying off the national debt; some by increasing the national debt. Personally, I doubt that any one of these plans developed to the fullest would solve all of our problems.

On our return from the convention we did have the opportunity of seeing a community which, in my opinion is making itself a better place in which to live. We were invited to stop by the home of a friend of the group. This home is one of the old style Southern mansions which showed to have all the luxury, culture, and hospitality that only the Southern mansion is capable of offering to the fullest. Our host was very gracious and from outward appearances he has managed well and worked hard and can now enjoy the luxuries of life.

We were shown through a large brick plant in which our host has an interest. This plant has been made possible because someone thought a local clay would make good bricks. Our host and other local people had a scientific study of the clay made and learned it would make excellent bricks. A company was then formed, modern machinery installed in a modern plant and local labor put to work. This plant is now producing a superior product that is being sold in twenty-four states. We asked if the company had any labor troubles and learned they have never had any and do not expect any labor troubles because the employees share in the profits of the plant and have no need for a bargaining agency. Each employee says: "We are making the best bricks that can be made anywhere."

We then visited a farm belonging to our host and found there lush green pastures, with fat cattle grazing on land that a few years ago was worn out East Texas sand. This superior production from poorer land was brought about by our host using the most modern machinery and applying the most modern machinery and the best principles and crops that scientific research has developed. This farm is now showing a profit and fair return on the total investment and in turn, the manager on the farm is paid an above average wage, and the man making bricks is supplied meat and butter for his table at a price he can afford to pay.

In contrast to this farm, we saw another just across the road with an old rundown house, few farm tools, land washed away and exhibiting the poverty that can be seen on a poor East Texas farm. This family, perhaps, has a low standard of living and are not good happy citizens in the community who will have the educational and cultural background to carry on our American way of life.

Before leaving I decided our host was a successful man, not because he has managed well and has what money will buy, but because he commented that we would have to help the poor farmer improve his land and lot in life; because the laborer in the plant has a share in the making of a brick; because we learned later that our host has given and equipped a City Park in which children and grown-ups of the community can meet and play.

Surely the solution to our problems and the American way of life lies not in what we can force some other individual or group to do, but in the heart and minds of men whto choose to be successful in the way our host has chosen. If we maintain this way of life and improve upon it, we cannot tax one class of people until we kill the initative to amass fortunes and lower the cultural standards we have set. For if we do this, we have lost the backbone of scientific research and know-how which enabled our host to know a brick could be made in his community and land brought back to productivity. Our only salvation in an expanding population is to make best use of God's resources we are here in charge of. Neither can we forget the poor farmer across the road who cannot, by himself raise the productivity and improve his standard of living, or the man can make a brick if given a chance. Surely there is a course we can pursue to solve most of these problems and make our communities a better place in which to live but it must be first in the mind and heart of man.

RESOLUTION

With profound sorrow the McKinney Garden Club records the passing, on March 10, 1957 of Mrs. John Chandler, one of the few remaining charter members and one of our most beloved members. Her unselfish efforts, her love of beauty and her generosity with her flowers, endeared her to each member of the club.

Realizing that we have lost a faithful and devoted member, we as a club, are resolved to record our deep personal loss and to extend our sympathy to her family and send a copy to the press.

The Lord Planted a garden
In the first white days of the world.
And he set there an Angel warden
In a garment of light unfurled.
So near the place of heaven
That the hawk might nest with the wren
For there in the cool of the eve
God walked with the first men.
The kiss of the Sun for pardon
The song of the bird for mirth—
One is nearer God's heart in a garden
Than anywhere else on earth.

Babb of Galveston, in a double ring ceremony in February in Austin. The wedding was performed in the chapel of the University of Texas Baptist Student Center with Rev. Robert D. Lovell, officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a cocktail length eggshell white lace dress, princess style, with a high neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her circular veil was held in place by a small white headpiece. She wore a one-strand pearl necklace and pearl earrings and carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations.

The bridegroom's mother wore an original dark print taffeta with pink and black accessories and a pink rose corsage.

After the wedding ceremony there was a reception in the Jim Hogg room of the Driscoll Hotel. The wedding cake was in the shape of a double ring and the table, covered with a lace cloth, was centered with a gardenia and candelabra arrangement. Miss Marjorie Emerson of Galveston, a university student, attended the bride's table.

The bride received her Bachelor or Arts degree at North Texas State College and her Master of Science Degree in social work at the University of Texas. She is a member of Psi Chi Pi, Sigma Alpha and Alpha Chi sororities.

He is a member of the University of Texas chapters of Sigma Pi Sigma, honorary physics fraternity, and an associate member of Sigma Xi, a research scientists' fraternity.

"Big Story" On NBC Telecast Friday Has Local Interest

Matt Conklin, city editor of the Sherman Democrat, will be the subject of a television program on NBC network Friday night, which has local interest. The "Big Story" program, entitled "Scramble," is based on stories Conklin wrote while police reporter for the Democrat a year ago.

The story is based on the robbery-beating of a service station attendant, 29, the subsequent arrest of two Perrin Air Force Base airmen who were charged with robery by assault, and promotion by Conklin of a fund drive among Perrin airmen for the victim.

The victim in the attack is Dick Taylor, brother-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. John Sears of McKinney. Taylor, a man of small statute, was employed at the station and was hospitalized for several weeks following the attack. His wife, a sister of Mrs. Sears, has been an invalid for sometime.

Conklin, a former Air Force staff sergeant at nearby Perrin in 1950-51, promoted the fund drive and news coverage out of loyalty to the Air Force.

He considered the crime a threat to harmonious relations between the military and civilian communities.

The television dramatization, to present a symbolic picture of military-civilian relations, has changed many of the incidents.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams and Mrs. Sadie Smith, of Dallas, and Mr. Richardson, of Plano visited O. L. Taylor and family at Chambersville.

Western Europe's Defense May Cut Disarmament

By CHARLES . M'CANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Realization that Western Europe's defense must be based on nuclear power on the way to disarmament at last.

Three recent developments have brought acute awareness in the North Atlantic Treaty countries of Europe that, as things stand today, the wartime use of nuclear weapons is one of the inescapable facts of life.

First was Britain's revolutionary new arguments program, which involves the shifting of that country's defense to a nuclear basis.

◆ ◆ ◆

Russia Issues Threats.

Secondly was the statement by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that the new West German Army must have tactical atomic weapons.

Thirdly was the outburst of threats by Soviet Russia, still continuing, that any NATO country which permits the establishment of nuclear weapons based on its territory faces catastrophe in event of war.

Taken together, these developments seem to have increased the possibility that the five-nation disarmament subcommittee of the United Nations, now meeting in London, may take the first step before long toward a disarmament agreement.

London dispatches suggest that the first step may be an agreement for a cut in the size of conventional armaments.

◆ ◆ ◆

A smaller Army.

It would be only a short step. But it would be the first fruit of 11 years of negotiations between the Western powers and Soviet Russia. If that step were taken, negotiations on the eventual abolition of nuclear weapons would have better chance to success.

Britain's program, calling for a smaller army, the abolition of the draft and the complete shifting of defense to the atomic weapons age came as a shock to the governments of Western European NATO countries.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Malone and Misses Bessie and Vivian Bell, of McKinney attended Easter services at the Methodist Church at Cottage Hill Sunday. Texans Will Spend Billion On Highway System

GALVESTON (UP). — Texas will spend an estimated one billion dollars on its highway system during the next three years, equaling the total spent in the last seven years, state highway engineer D. C. Greer said Friday.

But he added that the state's highway system is still "impoverished."

In a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of the Texas Ready Mix Concrete and Aggregate Association, Greer said during the present fiscal year and next there will be construction work carried out on 672 miles of interstate highways, 2,174 miles of state and federal highways and two thousand miles of farm-to-market roads.

The new federal highway aid bill will add about 100 million dollars per year over expenditures made under the previous construction program, he said.

Greer warned at the same time of "constant attempts that are made by various minority groups to divert or disperse highway motor vehicle revenues from the Highway department to other purposes."

"Each of these small dispersions could be labeled as minor and not severely crippling. When you add them all up, however, they do constitute a staggering sum of money that is moved from highway construction to other purposes," he said.

Greer said the primary highway system, embracing about 22,000 miles of trunk highways, can expect under existing outlays only about half enough money to bring them up to standards traffic will require during the next 15 years.

"This means the highway system is impoverished now and unless this dispersion is held in leash it will be bankrupt," he added.

'Mae West' Type Bills Charged By Naturopaths

AUSTIN (UP). — Texas naturopaths charge that they have been subjected to "Mae West" type bills in the Legislature since 1949.

The charge was made by Dr. Harris H. Santi of La Porte, one of three naturopaths summoned by the Travis county grand jury investigating charges of payoffs to legislative members.

Santi's remarks were made to newsmen Tuesday before he went before the grand jury. He said the reference to the movie actress, Mae West, stemmed from her famous invitation: "Come up and see me sometime."

The grand jury was in recess today. It will meet again Thursday.

Other witnesses were Dr. Howard Harmon of San Antonio, president of the Texas Naturopathic Physicians Association and Dr. Esther M. Giroski of Houston.

The grand jury was summoned after a legislative inquiry sparked by indictment of former Rep. James E. Cox of Conroe on charges he consented to accept a $5-000 bribe to kill a bill outlawing pratice of naturopathy in Texas.

Cox resigned from the legislature. He filed a criminal complaint against Harmon accusing him of offering a bribe.

Santi discussed what he called "payoff bills" with newsmen prior to entering the grand jury room. Testimony before the grand jury is secret.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Gibson and children, of Dallas, visited her mother, Mrs. Thula Cameron, at Altoga, Sunday.

Paul Holmes, A&M student, was home for the Easter holidays.

BOARD RULES GILES TO SERVE

AUSTIN (UP). — The State Board of Pardons and Paroles believes former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles should serve the 21 months remaining on his prison sentence.

The board Tuesday denied parole to Giles and said he should serve the remainder of his term in the Texas Prison System.

The order listed his release date as Jan. 21, 1959.

Giles was convicted in Austin and pleaded guilty in San Antonio and Crystal City of bribery and theft charges involving his administration of the multi-million dollar Veterans Land Fund. He had been elected to nine successive terms as comissioner of the General Land Office.

Giles, 57, started his six-year sentence at Huntsville Sate Prison Jan. 10, 1956. The Jan. 21 1959 discharge date allows for commutation and trusty time.

He was sentenced to a total of 75 years for his part in the scandals, to run concurrently in six-year terms.

After being convincted in Austin, Giles entered a plea of guilty to 12 criminal indictments — nine in Travis county, one in Bexar and two in Zavala county.

"Mr. Giles' case has been, and will be, considered in the same manner and under the same rules and citeria as all other cases. . ." the board said. His case, docketed when he entered prison for review in April, came up for routine consideration.

DANIEL VOTED DOWN ON REQUEST

AUSTIN (UP). — By a one-vote margin, members of the House State Affairs Committee voted against Gov. Price Daniel's urgent request for reorganization of the Texas Insurance Commission.

The test came on a motion by Rep. R. H. Cory of Victoria to instruct a three-member sub-committee to report on two re-organization proposals Wednesday night.

Committee Chairman W. S. Heatly of Paducah broke a 9-9 tie by voting against instructing the sub-committee to report.

The sub-committee is headed by Rep. J. Gordon Bristow of Big Spring, and includes Reps. Joe Burkett of Kerrville and Wesley Roberts of Lamesa.

Meaning of Action.

Bristow was asked what he thought the committee action meant.

. . "Well," he said, "I guess it means we've still got the bills."

Cory was asked if he will make another attempt to exhume the re-organization measures when the committee meets again Wednesday night.

"I don't know. I'll try whenever I think I have the votes," he said.

Cory, who pointed out the sub-committee has had the bills under consideration for five weeks, said he was "not trying to intimidate or force. . . but simply trying to instruct the sub-committee to report. . . to bring out the one bill or the other, favorably or unfavorably."

U. S. Will Not Approve War Goods For China

WASHINGTON (UP). — The United States will not approve any move by its allies to sell war-potential materials to Red China or any member of the Communist bloc, an administration spokesman said today.

Harold C. McClellan, assistant secretary of commerce for international trade, made the comment on current negotiations among the allies on East-West trade problems. Britain and Japan particularly want a relaxation of trade controls.

McClellan noted that for some time this country has been under increasing pressure from its allies to relax East-West trade controls.

The State Department announced last Saturday it is ready to discuss certain modifications in trade curbs with 14 U.S. allies who participate in the trade conirol program.

McCleilan said the United States took the move to avoid the possibility of losing all controls on trade with Red China and other Soviet bloc nations. He said this danger was present because of the pressing need of the allies, particularly Britain and Japan, for more world trade.

During the coming talks, he said, "We will insist on complete safeguards against trading in any strategic materials." But he said the United States probably will make concessions on trade by its allies in certain non - strategic items, particularly in the Asian trade. He did not name the items.

What the administration has in mind, McClellan said, is a possible tightening of East-West trade controls in Europe and a slight relaxation of some controls in Asia. Other international trade experts do not believe Britain and Japan have much to gain in such an easing of controls.
